Content production automation is only useful if it maintains the highest creativity and consistency standards.

Telestream Post Producer provides for flexible templates that can be created or specified by creative and editorial staff to ensure that automatically created iterations adhere to the required levels of quality and consistency throughout the production process.

The review process for new promos and other productions can be simplified by using Post Producer to quickly “try out” tweaks to finished content, like graphic treatments, transition points, layers, etc. Review versions can be sent through Vantage workflows to quickly produce different versions to test screen sizes or resolution settings.
